September 26, 2022

Dear Valued Customer,

Please see the attached MAXXAIR sales flyer and an updated Supplemental Price List for the new MX series of refrigerant management machines for 2023. Since the launch earlier this year, we have experienced overwhelming positive feedback from our customers using the product in the field. We look forward to the continued success of this product line going into next year.

One of the key focus areas with this product family is an emphasis on quality and durability. We are committed to maintaining a high level of quality by not compromising on the quality of components. While we have implemented actions to increase efficiencies in production and procurement, we are unable to completely offset the cost increases in materials and transportation. As a result, we are implementing a price increase effective January 1, 2023. This price adjustment reflects an increase of 10% on the MX134 and MX1234 models and 15% on the MX3030.

We are pleased to announce the launch of the new 500-0175 Cool Smoke MP Multi-Pressure Smoke and Leak Detection Machine in Q1 2023. Pricing is included in the Supplement and be on the watch for more details coming soon!

We thank you for your continued support.

Best regards,

Dennis Eaton
